In Front Ranks When Attack Was Made at Priceburg.

Situation in Anthracite Field Grows More Threatening—Militia Now in Half the Coal Territory—Several Clashes—Fifty Injured.

Scranton, Pa., Sept. 25.—The situation throughout the anthracite coal fields hourly grows more threatening and at last it has been realized that the most stringent measures must be adopted to prevent riot rule throughout the entire valley.

At Priceburg last night a mob made an attack on the workings. In the front ranks were placed women with children and many of the women carried babies in their arms. The guard at the colliery charged on the mob with drawn revolvers but not being able to repulse the attack with the possibility of killing women and children they retreated behind the barricades.

The mob grew more daring and there was immediate danger of a serious outbreak when two companies of soldiers under command of Maj. Rush field arrived in a special train. The crowd soon scattered. Later while the soldiers were escorting two non-uniform men to a place of safety, two Hungarians attacked them, one armed with a stiletto and the other with an axe. They were disarmed. Before the encounter was finished three non-uniform men were badly used up and maybe fatally injured.

During the night fully 50 people were assailed by strikers in various sections. Disturbances were numerous and the injuries received by the unfortunates varied from battered heads to more serious assaults.

MARTIAL LAW NOT DECLARED.

Harrisburg, Pa., Sept. 25.—Governor Stone says it will not be necessary to declare martial law in the coal region. He says the national guard will simply assist the civil authorities.

EIGHTEEN CARS SHIPPED.

About 700 negro strike breakers whose presence caused the rioting, have not yet been taken away and are working under protection of the state. There

They were engaged in loading a hole with nine kegs of powder when an explosion occurred. The cause is not fully known but it is claimed that while the men were drilling a hole after putting powder in the jar of the drill caused the explosion. The men were entirely covered by a huge mass of earth.

PRESIDENT

Spent a Comfortable Night and the Abscess is Causing Him Little Annoyance.

Washington, Sept. 25.—President Roosevelt spent a comfortable night at the temporary White House where he is expected to remain for ten days or two weeks. The abscess on his leg is causing him very little annoyance beyond the quiet that it necessitates.

There have been some slight changes in the patient's temperature, but these give the doctors no special concern. They attribute them to last night's transfer from the station and to the warm weather. The wound was opened last night after the President's arrival and was found to be progressing normally. The President is kept very quietly. Secretary Cortelyou was today asked the question direct whether the President's condition is as favorable today as it was yesterday. He answered in an emphatic affirmative.

All intentions of finishing the interrupted trip this year have been abandoned. The President will not travel until after the adjournment of Congress, when he will go to the coast and pick up the places which have been cut out of the itinerary just closed. He does not intend to go back to Oyster Bay.

The amount maturing before June 30, 1903, is in round numbers $20,670,000. If the offer be accepted by the business community, the government profit will be in round numbers $220,000.

Hundred Killed.

Women and children were trodden under foot. The fire spread with rapidity and within a quarter of an hour over 100 of the wedding guests had been suffocated or burned to death, and many seriously injured.

BLEW

Up the Hotel Because the Proprietor Didn't Like Him.

Washington, Sept. 25.—Frank J. McKee, 26 years old residing at the Golden Eagle Hotel, here wrecked that hostelry with dynamite this morning and afterward killed himself with a pistol. Pique at being cut by Louis Brandt, the proprietor, is judged to have been the cause of the deed. McKee is said to have had from $20,000 to $30,000 during the time he had lived at the hotel, but drew his last $70 last week. He had been drinking heavily.

McKee was angry with Brandt because Brandt resented McKee's attentions to his daughter. The explosion threw Louis Brandt and wife into the cellar. Nobody else was hurt.

Pataskala, O., Sept. 25.—Today's Standard says that a movement is on foot here to encourage the directors of the Columbus, Buckeye Lake and Newark Traction company to run a line from Ethna to Pataskala, in order to accommodate their rapidly increasing number of patrons here.

A prominent citizen of this community interviewed Mr. Harrigan, superintendent of the above line, and the latter gentleman, while not in a position to promise anything definite, stated that he would bring the matter up at the next board meeting. In the meantime a petition is being circulated here asking the board of directors of this corporation to give the matter serious consideration and if possible grant Pataskala such an outlet. The paper is receiving the endorsement of business men as well as all other classes, which indicates that our people are alive to the advantages of a first class electric road.

TAX THE TRUSTS

Senator Morgan Suggests Plan To Curb the Combinations

In Manner That Would Be Constitutional--Says Prohibitive Tariff Can Be Imposed and Quotes Precedents--Senator's Statement.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Sept. 25.—Senator John T. Morgan has outlined a plan whereby he contends that a law of Congress, imposing practically prohibitive taxes on the stock of what are commonly known as "trusts" would be the most effective remedy for controlling them. To a Chattanooga man Senator Morgan in reply to a letter has written as follows:

"Dear Sir: I do not see how a tax on the capital stock or the business of a corporation is any more a direct tax than a tax on oleomargarine or the pound or on the circulation of a state bank or private bank, by the dollar, and taxes on these are held to be constitutional by the Supreme Court without any provision for their apportionment among the states.

"The Supreme Court has not yet given a full and complete definition of the meaning of the words 'direct taxes' in the second section of the first article of the constitution, but they have decided that certain taxes were not 'direct' in the sense that they must be apportioned among the states in proportion to population.

"Among the subjects of taxation that are not 'direct' within the meaning of the clause I have above cited are oleomargarine, the issues of banks not chartered by the United States, liquors, including beer and alcoholic, distilleries, carriages and many other articles produced and owned in the United States. These precedents apply to the business of corporations, their capital stock and their charters, where they are not instrumentalities of State or Federal Government. The apportionment of a tax on corporations, according to the population of the state in which they are located is an impossibility, and they are either beyond the power of Congress to tax them or they are not included in the category which requires apportionment. It is certainly not the intention of the constitution to exempt the capital stock or the money of corporations or their business from taxation, because these cannot be apportioned between the states according to population.

"There are two things that all the states must have within their borders, namely, lands and people; and a poll tax or a land tax can be apportioned among the states according to numbers. Those are the direct taxes that are mentioned in Section 2 of Article 1 of the Constitution.

"This has been the opinion of lawyers and Courts since the decision in the case of Hutton vs. the United States, in the Dallas Reports, which has never been overruled. In the Senate I have taken the ground, to which I firmly adhere, that the fourteenth amendment repeals so much of Section 2 of Article 1 of the Constitution as relates to the apportionment of taxes among the states.

"But I do not advance that construction as a reason why the capital stock of corporations may be taxed without reference to apportionment among the states, and that it is not a 'direct tax.' Real estate owned by a corporation as part of its capital stock is personal property, and is so regarded in the laws of descents and distribution, and in all other laws regarding the disposal of property as between the stockholders. An unimproved gold mine may constitute the entire property of a corporation, and the shares of stock that represent the property are personal property.

"They cease to be real estate when shares of stock are issued to represent the interest of the stockholders, and the shares are taxable as personal property. As I understand the rulings of the Supreme Court, the question you ask me as to the apportionment of taxes upon corporations among the states is settled beyond dispute. Of course I cannot discuss this question upon the decided cases in the limits of a letter, but it seems unnecessary to do so when the precedents leave no room for doubt as to the constitutional right of Congress to tax what are called private corporations, or such as are not used as the instrumentalities of Government. There can be no real difficulty in framing such a law or in its execution. As a cure for the monopolies that are called trusts, it will prove to be a 'dead shot,' and that may be the reason why it may be without favor in the views of some strong and influential people. Sincerely yours,

"JOHN T. MORGAN."

THE JURY DISMISSAL

TIMELY ACTION IN LICKING COUNTY SUGGESTED BY PROSECUTOR FITZGIBBON.

Saving Our People Large Expense and Preventing Escape of Criminals, Being Followed by Other Counties of the State.

The disreputable fling that the American-Tribune makes at Prosecuting Attorney Fitzgibbon is simply another evidence of the campaign of personal abuse which that paper proposes to rely upon for the purpose of electing its own partisan ticket.

The decision made in certain courts declaring the jury law to be unconstitutional was not understood to apply to Licking county until the discovery was made by Prosecuting Attorney Fitzgibbon. It was understood by the bar generally throughout the state that the decision only applied to six certain counties, instead of all the counties, and that impression prevailed in Newark. This impression, too, so generally prevailed throughout the state, that in many counties the juries had already been impaneled and were transacting business, returning criminal indictments, etc. Among these counties are our neighbors, Delaware and Muskingum.

But now, since the action of the Licking county court in dismissing the grand and petit juries, the other counties of the state are doing likewise, and many of them have discharged their juries in the midst of the transaction of business, entailing great cost on those counties.

This great cost has been saved in Licking county, and no criminals can escape justice as they could have done had the timely action by the court here not been taken.

Mr. Fitzgibbon's discovery that the recent court decision declaring the jury law unconstitutional applied to Licking county, not only shows his ability as a lawyer, but it proves his alertness and close attention to the business of the Prosecuting Attorney's office.

It is plain that the A-T. feels the necessity for resorting to some desperate means to offset the superiority of Mr. Fitzgibbon as a lawyer and his eminent essential qualifications for the duties of Prosecuting Attorney. No prolonged or extended eulogy is necessary to induce support for Mr. Fitzgibbon for this office. His character, ability, integrity and success as a lawyer is so well known all over Licking county that he needs no eulogy. His extensive and important business in court speaks for itself. He is universally recognized as one of the leading trial lawyers at the Newark bar, and the reason that he has such an extensive business in court, which is shown by the large number of cases on the docket in which he is an attorney, is because people who have suits in court have confidence in Mr. Fitzgibbon as an able, faithful and successful lawyer.

If a man is not controlled by political reasons in voting for a candidate for Prosecuting Attorney, he will invariably vote for the lawyer whom he would employ to try his own case in court.

The Independent Democratic Voter.

The Independent Democratic voter is the man the American-Tribune is making desperate efforts to coddle in order to secure his support for the Republican county ticket that is intensely partisan and that nobody had any voice in choosing except a select and very exclusive few. "Gang" would be the choice term the A-T. would apply to Democrats if a few of them had combined and nominated candidates by such methods. And as for the Independent Democratic voter of Licking county, he would utterly repudiate a ticket dominated by his own party by such methods. He would absolutely refuse to support a single candidate upon a ticket fixed up and set up wholly in such a manner.

The Independent Democratic voter of Licking county desires a voice in making nominations for all local offices.

The Independent Democratic Voter, too, knows that if he were a candidate on the ticket of his party, the A-T. would assail him just as it traduces all other Democratic candidates. Furthermore, he knows that if he were a candidate for official position NOT ONE of the candidates on the present Republican county ticket would cast a vote for him.

The Roosevelt-Littlefield Anti-Trust Claptrap.

The reported character of Congressman Littlefield's anti-trust bill, announced to be President Roosevelt's favorite measure, indicates that it is another claptrap scheme to blind the people while it really favors the trusts. It does not make trusts illegal, and does not provide any punishment for people who form or maintain them. It is restricted entirely to civil actions.

As to these it is said to provide that no witness shall be excused from testifying on the ground that the evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him, may tend to incriminate him or subject him to a penalty of forfeiture, but no person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter or thing concerning which he may testify or produce evidence. This could not apply in criminal cases because the constitution expressly provides that no person shall "be compelled in a criminal case to be a witness against himself."

It will of course afford ground for swelling talk to say that the administration proposes to make the trust magnates come into court and testify against themselves, but it must be remembered that there must be a suit before this can be done, and this suit must be brought by a private individual. And here again the plan talks loudly. The man who sues a trust and has the facts behind him that will prove that he has suffered damages from the operations of any company which works in restraint of interstate trade or commerce, is—

1. To receive three times the actual amount of damages suffered.
2. To have all his lawyers' fees paid by the trust.
3. To have the trust pay all other expenses of the suit, including the court costs.

But who is to bring this suit? Only somebody who has "suffered damages." And what relief does that offer to the country? Everybody has "suffered damages" from the beef trust, for example, but a law suit for compensation, even on the basis mentioned, would be ridiculous. Nobody would bring such a suit. The loss of time would be greater than the amount recovered.

And this absurdity is proposed in the place of action by the government against the wrongdoers. If it were ever adopted it would serve as an additional shield against criminal prosecution. If a citizen complained of trust exactions the answer would be, "Why don't you sue the trust?" The people will surely see through any such trifling. Trusts are right or wrong. If they are wrong, as they have always been considered, and as they are held in the Sherman law, they should be suppressed—not recognized, as they would be under the Roosevelt-Littlefield Scheme.

There is a Republican Congressman in Indiana who is making himself conspicuous as a sham reformer. The other day he made a pious exhibition of himself by telling in a speech to an aggregation of school teachers that Webster, Clay and Calhoun, gambled and drank to excess. Doubtless most of his hearers might have told him that whatever may have been the personal failings of Webster and Clay—and they have been greatly exaggerated—John C. Calhoun was a veritable puritan in morals. His private life was rigid and austere to a degree—and he was wholly free from the personal vices of which so many of the statesmen of the period were accused. Mr. Landis should read up a little.

Roosevelt and the Combines.

(N. Y. Evening Post, Ind. Rep.)
The charge is freely made that his speeches about restraining trusts are only declamations; that he knows nothing can be done; that his constitutional amendment will take years to get, if it is ever secured at all. But in cutting away the tariff protection of trusts there is something definite that can be done immediately. The Republicans of the West are demanding that it be done. Unless the President is willing to rest under the suspicion that he is talking clap-trap for political purposes he will soon take occasion to say that he agrees with those ardent supporters of his in the West.

It used to be the rank and file who were bothering over a revision of the tariff. Now it is the party leaders, and they are anxiously buttonholing each other while asking what they are to do to be saved.

DEDRICK AND THE PEARY CLUB.

Quarrel of the Lieutenant and Surgeon of the Expedition Now Returning Has Not Disturbed the Cordial Relations of Their Wives. Ziegler, the Backer of the Baldwin Expedition, Calls Its Members "Cigarette Smoking Dudes."

There seems to be no end of trouble among the arctic explorers, interest in whose exploits is heightened by the announcement that Lieutenant Peary is now on his return from the far north. According to the accounts, there has been a serious quarrel in the ranks of the Peary expedition, Dr. Dedrick, the physician and surgeon, having either been forced out or resigned. Dr. Dedrick's wife, Mrs. Cora Dedrick, who is a teacher in the public schools at Arlington, N. J., says that she had never for a moment doubted that the doctor would pull through all right. She was sure his grit would carry him through any emergency that might arise. She declared that she had no information about his homecoming beyond the telegram from her husband lately published. Through a neighbor she telegraphed $50 to the doctor at Sydney, C. B., as he requested. She was not prepared to say whether she would continue to teach or not. It will depend on her husband's plans.

Mrs. Dedrick is not teaching school because of necessity, says a correspondent in the New York Herald. Her father is James L. Boyd, a well to do citizen of Washington, N. J. In addition to this the Peary Arctic club made an agreement with Dr. Dedrick when he sailed north four years ago to pay his wife $50 a month and to deposit $100 a month to her credit in a bank. Mrs. Dedrick refused to say whether the club has continued to make these payments since Dr. Dedrick resigned his commission, more than a year ago, but the understanding is that it has.

While Mrs. Dedrick was very guarded in her statements, it was plain that she did not entertain the same harsh feelings against the club that her husband did. She was strong in the defense of his actions, nevertheless, and said that he must have some strong reason for doing as he did.

She stated that she felt that the differences between her husband and Lieutenant Peary were not of a personal character. They were the warmest of friends before sailing, and Mrs. Peary had told her that they were greater friends than ever two years ago. Notwithstanding the fact that the husbands evidently quarreled and separated in the far north, Mrs. Dedrick and Mrs. Peary spent two pleasant weeks together last fall in a New York hotel.

Dr. Dedrick's life has been one of impulses. He was graduated from the Lickets town public schools about twenty years ago and took up the study of medicine. Suddenly he gave this up and went to Washington, N. J., as editor of the Warren Tidings. He brought the paper quickly to a prosperous condition, but when on the wave of success he abandoned the newspaper and entered Hahnemann Medical college in Philadelphia. About this time he married Miss Boyd. After graduation he went to Stillwater, Sussex county, and became a leading physician in that section. Suddenly he closed his office without any explanation and returned to Washington, N. J. For a year or more he devoted himself to arctic study, and when Peary announced that he was going to make a dash for the pole Dr. Dedrick secured a commission from the club.

William Ziegler, the millionaire backer of the Baldwin expedition, is very much wrought up over the failure of that enterprise.

"All I want is to reach the north pole," said Mr. Ziegler to a New York World reporter. "I don't care how much money it costs. If I can plant the stars and stripes there, I'll be the happiest man in the United States. I'm not after scientific research, though I know we'll get as much as anybody. It doesn't matter if one expedition has failed; I'll send another. But it won't be a lot of cigarette smoking dudes this time. We'll get there yet."

Mr. Ziegler's ire had been aroused by statements made by R. L. Vinard in Boston upon his arrival there. In them he criticized Commander Baldwin and Captain Johansen, calling them both self-willed men.

"I came back," said Vinard, "because Mr. Baldwin came back. I had nothing to do with the trouble between the captain and Mr. Baldwin."

"Why did you leave when you knew a relief ship was at Franz-Josef Land?" insisted Mr. Ziegler. "You had coal and plenty of supplies. Oh, I know you say you ran short of food and dogs. Yes," continued Mr. Ziegler, turning to the World reporter, "they had a lot of tenderfeet along, and he's one of them."

"We were not tenderfeet!" rejoined Vinard hotly.

"Oh, yes, you were," put in Mr. Ziegler. "You yourself have said that you wanted to smoke cigarettes and froze your fingers rolling them. You were all a lot of duffers, trying to make cigarettes when you were sent to discover the north pole."

"I sent this expedition to discover the north pole, not to eat pie or smoke cigarettes. The bone and sinew of the nation is not in its pie eaters or its cigarette smokers."

FULL TEXT

Of the Platform Adopted at the Democratic State Convention.

In state convention assembled, we, the Democrats of Ohio, hereby acknowledge and declare our continued allegiance to the Democratic party of the nation and on national issues reaffirm and endorse the principles laid down in its last national platform adopted at Kansas City, and which was fully and ably represented in the presidential campaign of 1900 by William Jennings Bryan. Regarding those principles as opposed to imperialism and colonialism, as opposed to government by injunction, as opposed to trusts and trust-fostering tariffs, as opposed to financial monopoly and as opposed to all other legalized monopolies and privileges, we condemn every effort to repudiate or ignore them.

In state and municipal affairs we pledge our party to a faithful application of those Democratic principles, to the end that the burdens of taxation may be equalized and home rule and local self-government be established and preserved.

REPUBLICANS ARRAIGNED.

Under the long continued control of the Republican party in this state, monopoly has been fostered and protected; the farmer and the small home owners have been burdened with excessive taxes that the beneficiaries and favorites of that party might be permitted to escape their just share of the public burdens; our public institutions have been wastefully and inefficiently managed and in them scandalous and cruel wrongs have been practiced upon the defenseless wards of the state; the farmers and small shippers continue to suffer from unjust discrimination at the hands of unregulated monopoly; the fine system of municipal government has been wrecked and the credit of cities destroyed, thereby producing a spirit of insecurity and unrest in all public affairs. The people can no longer trust the administration of their affairs to a party thus recklessly devoted to interests adverse to the public welfare. As a more specific statement of our principles upon these and other public questions we declare:

TAXABLE PROPERTY.

1. That all taxable property should be appraised by assessing boards which should be in session for at least a part of each year and whose proceedings and deliberations should be open to the public; that power be given to employ a representative to present the interests of the public in hearings before these boards and that in making assessments all property should be appraised at not less than its saleable value.

2. That the present laws for assessing the property of steam railroads and other public service corporations should be so changed as to compel the assessment of those properties at not less than their saleable value as going concerns and to prevent their evasion of just taxation.

CLASSIFICATION.

3. That to prevent evasion of state taxes by discriminating valuations, a separation of the sources of state and local revenues should be made. And to that end we heartily endorse the constitutional amendment now pending before the people and to be voted on next year, which will permit classifications of taxable property.

4. That all public service corporations should be required by law to make sworn public reports and that the power of visitation and examination over such corporations should be given to the proper auditing officers to the end that the true value of the privileges had by such corporations may be made plain to the people.

FREE PASSES.

5. That the acceptance of free passes on other favors from railroads by public officers or employees should be adequate ground for their removal from office.

6. That the denial of the right of free speech and peaceable persuasion in times of labor disturbances is a denial of the right of free speech and that government by injunction if persisted in, will wreck the liberties of the people.

MUNICIPAL CODE.

7. That we demand the enactment of a code which provides absolute home rule for municipalities which shall include the right to establish the merit system with civil service under which that system, as now in use in fire and police departments may be strengthened and perfected and be extended to other municipal departments particularly to water and lighting plants now operated by municipalities and to street car and all public service plants that may hereafter be established under municipal ownership and operation.

HANNA, COX AND FORAKER.

8. That we condemn the vicious and corrupt bargain between the boss of Cincinnati and Ohio's United States Senators to force through the legislature a code that will foist upon the municipalities of Ohio Cincinnati's form of government in order that the power of its boss may be preserved on one hand and on the other hand will perpetuate existing street railway franchises which Ohio's United States Senators represent.

9. That the municipal code should protect the public against all clauses which may be clandestinely placed therein in the special interest of public service monopolies by requiring that all ordinances granting, renewing, extending or modifying franchises shall be inoperative until confirmed by a majority vote of the people of the municipality, and we are unalterably opposed to the granting of any perpetual franchises.

SENATORIAL NOMINATIONS.

10. That until United States senators are required by amendment to the federal constitution to be elected by popular vote nominations of candidates for United States senator should be made by state conventions. And we hereby state that in the official call for the next Democratic state convention of Ohio there be embodied a clause providing for the nomination at that convention of Democratic candidate for United States senator and a clause providing for action by said convention, upon all amendments to the state constitution then pending before the people.

Upon these principles of home rule, and just taxation, and to the accomplishment of these purposes in municipal and state affairs, we invite the co-operation of all citizens of Ohio, regardless of their party affiliations on national questions, hereby solemnly pledging our candidates to the faithful observance of this declaration both in letter and spirit.

Only 20 acres have been developed by underground workings and about 67 acres have received attention on the surface.

The mines are producing to-day, under very limited operation, from $150,000 a year. The present management is now installing machinery and improvements that will swell this annual output to AT LEAST $500,000. Present shafts and drifts place in sight ore enough to tax all available machinery for centuries. Eliminating from the calculation all revenue from agricultural, timbering and miscellaneous sources, the property will earn a sum ample to pay income dividends annually on the capitalization.

Investment in such a proposition as this does not in any sense border upon speculation. Stock in this corporation is as carefully protected as a Government bond. Since it is offered to you at a figure considerably below par, you can be assured of several times the ordinary rate of income.

Mine La Motte has been for a century one of the most famous lead producers in the country. It is the only mine today producing and shipping Nickel and Cobalt regularly. Its "Anchor Brand" of Pig Lead has been the standard of the market for years.

The estate, mine and plant have been under private ownership and control until now. From this time forward the output of the property will be increased as rapidly as modern machinery and methods can be installed to do it. Present earnings assure annual dividends of at least 8 per cent. on par, and inside of six months this will be doubled.

A small block of stock is herewith offered for sale at $7.50 per share (par value $10). The amount put out at this figure will be limited. Immediate investors can make good profit, both on income and on rise in value of stock.

A large number of representative Ohio investors have already made careful personal inspection of property and plant. We will place you in touch with them, or if any of your friends will undertake your own personal investigation we will submit proposition to defray all expense incident or same. We shall ask you to do no business with us unless you may be absolutely satisfied as to the safety, integrity and profit of this investment.

ATHLETICS ARE CHAMPIONS.

The Philadelphia American League team, popularly known as the Athletics, by defeating Baltimore two games Wednesday, clinched the pennant in Ban Johnson's organization. They cannot now be dislodged from first place, and their victory is undoubtedly popular in both sections, east and west, outside the cities that had clubs fighting for the championship. Even in Boston, St. Louis and Chicago, there is a feeling that if neither of the home teams could win, they would like to see the Athletics carry off the honor.

There are several reasons for this. At the beginning of the season, Connie Mack's team that looked like a championship possibility, was literally riddled by the injunctions against his best players, Lajoie, Bernhard, Flick and Frazer, but the nifty manager lost no time worrying but set to work to get a winner. He got the eccentric left-hander Rube Waddell, and some youngsters, and developed a team that won the championship in the American, and simply outclasses any team in the National except the Pirates. Waddell has been a tower of strength, and the other pitchers, Plank, Hastings, Mitchell and Wilson have done well.

O. S. U. TRAINING TABLE.

Thirteen O. S. U. football players were taken to the training table, which was started at the University Dining Hall on N. High st. Wednesday evening. Coach Hale will be in charge of the squad. The following players went to the table: Captain Elder, Malone, Wiles, Oliver, Lincoln, Hill, Swan and Fay. Wheeler will be added next week and other additions will be made until the squad reaches 25 players.

MICHIGAN'S FULLBACK RETURNS.

There is much joy in Ann Arbor over the arrival of the great fullback, Sweeley, who played a sensational game last season for Michigan. As a punter Sweeley had few equals and no superiors in 1901, and many Newark people will remember, who saw the game against O. S. U. last year, how accurately and deliberately Sweeley booted the pig skin down the O. S. U. field, gaining on an average of 20 yards on every exchange of punts with the O. S. U. full back.

With Sweeley, Michigan's back field is complete just as it was in 1901, when the Wolverines made a record of 550 points scored, while their goal line was never crossed.

Ohio State plays Michigan at Ann Arbor, October 25, and many Newark people will go up from Columbus on a "football special" to "root" for the Ohio gridiron representatives.

SCIENCE AGAINST BATTING.

Picking an all-star nine from among the American leaguers one ought to make an aggregation that would be hard to beat, says the Chicago News.

The majority of infield positions are filled with the best in the business and the outfielders can give and take all that any others may want to show. To pick such a team the best men in the league, from an all-round standpoint, batting, fielding and baserunning, is difficult, especially if team work is added to these other three qualifications.

Discussing this question the other day between the members of the White Stockings and Washington clubs, two teams were presented one with qualifications as given above and the second picked only for its hitting strength—that is the best stickers in each position.

The first team, picked for its hitting,

GROWS WORSE

MISS CARPENTER IS NOW IN A CRITICAL CONDITION.

Young Woman Was to Have Married Jonathan Stephen in This City.

This Month.

Mr. Herman R. Carpenter, who was previously mentioned in these columns as taking service with Mr. Henry Sayre the plumber, has received a telephone message to go home immediately. His sister, Letha Carpenter, as already published, became violently insane at Zanesville, O., on Tuesday of this week. She was taken in charge by her father and removed to her home near Batesville, Noble county, Ohio. She seemed to be perfectly sane when they moved her to her home, but she took a relapse on Wednesday night, and is now in a critical condition and growing worse all the time.

As was announced in Wednesday's paper, the cause of her present condition was the death of her betrothed, Jonathan Stephen, who died from typhoid fever on June 27 at 419 Baltimore street, this city. Mr. Stephen was in the B. & O. railroad service as fireman. The facts in the case are that Mr. Stephen and Miss Carpenter were to have been joined in the bonds of matrimony in this present month, during the Ohio State Fair. Miss Carpenter is the daughter of John W. Carpenter, who was mentioned in these columns some time ago as being the proprietor of the Sand Hill Stock farm, and is a well-to-do farmer, and resides near Batesville, Noble county.

AID SOCIETY—The Ladies Aid Society of St. Paul's church will be on duty at the home of Mrs. Sam Miller of No. 54 Union street on Friday and Saturday, Sept. 26 and 27, day afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Instinct of Horses in War.

Arabian horses manifest remarkable courage in battle. It is said that when a horse of this breed finds himself wounded and perceives that he will not be able to bear his rider much longer he quickly retires from the conflict, bearing his master to a place of safety while he has still sufficient strength. But, on the other hand, if the rider is wounded and falls to the ground the faithful animal remains beside him, unshaken by danger, neighing until assistance is brought.

AMUSEMENTS.

The emphatic success of "Devil's Island" still continues owing to the splendid work of the adapters of this incident, Messrs. DeNoie and Hall, whose construction of the play on the Dreyfus case has been highly complimented by press and public throughout the country. The extraordinary scenes and incidents of this famous case, made into play form, has necessitated the engaging of a company of players whose special style fit them for the different parts in the piece. So much attention has been given to this matter and so well have the artists been selected, that a performance of the highest merit has been the result.
The appreciation shown by the theatre goers has been commented upon by the press. This has been the means of stirring the members of the organization to further efforts. Miss Adelaide Warren, who portrays the difficult role of the Countess Nina Petrov-ski, is to be especially complimented upon her good work in this part.

The many scenes and incidents of this well known case are ably portrayed both in a scenic and literary sense and the strict regard to all matters pertaining to this event, has been the means of making the production the success it is. "Devil's Island" with its car load of scenery and effects will be presented at the Auditorium tonight and a successful engagement is assured.

FIRM FOUNDATION.

Nothing Can Undermine It in Newark.

People are sometimes slow to recognize true merit, and they cannot be blamed, for so many have been humbugged in the past. The experience of hundreds of Newark residents expressed publicly through newspapers and other sources, places Doan's Kidney Pills on a firm foundation here.

Mr. John Nelson of 41 Thirteenth street says: "When I enlisted in the 27th Ohio C. Volunteers under Captain Nichols, I passed medical inspection creditably. When I was discharged my back bothered me and at intervals ever after I had attacks of kidney complaint. My back was weak and painful across the loins, and I was also greatly distressed by urinary weakness. I took every kind of medicine but it availed me nothing. I tried Doan's Kidney Pills, getting a box at Crayton's drug store. After I used them my back ceased to ache and felt stronger. Besides mending my back they also corrected the urinary weakness. To a man 51 years of age this is a great comfort."

PARDON BY PRESIDENT

Signs a Document That Re-unites Soldier and Wife.

HEART SOFTENED BY BRIDE'S PLEA

For the Love of a New Jersey Girl Private Lammert Deserted, Was Wedded, Arrested and Sentenced to Prison, but Released on President's Order.

With a smile of tenderness on his rugged features, President Roosevelt dictated and signed a pardon for a deserter from the United States army, says the New York Journal.

On his desk in his library at Oyster Bay were spread a dozen or more blue sheets of paper and envelopes. The paper was small, the envelopes square. They exhaled a delicate odor of mignonette, and the handwriting was a woman's.

With the smile still on his face, President Roosevelt reached forth his hand and tapped a little bell. His stenographer came. The president spoke rapidly. The stenographer went out, returned in a few minutes with a typewritten paper, and beneath it there soon appeared in bold, black letters, "Theodore Roosevelt."

The paper was a pardon for Rhinehold Lammert, deserter from the United States army, sentenced to three years' imprisonment in Castle Williams, Governors Island.

It meant very great happiness for the writer of the letters on the blue mignonette scented paper. When Lammert enlisted and was sent to Porto Rico, all because of an outburst of fiery patriotism, he found down there in the tropics that he used to lay awake nights staring at the big, silver moon, utterly miserable because he couldn't forget a very pretty girl of the name of Anna Kimball of Greenville, N. J. So one day he secured the discharge papers of another soldier, and back to Greenville came Lammert, and there was a wedding. Greenville's local newspaper printed a very pretty notice about the returned soldier and his bride.

Somewhere near Greenville the paper fell into the hands of a bronze faced Porto Rican campaigner who wore epaulets and who remembered Lammert as a deserter. Not many mornings afterward, as the pretty bride was pouring Lammert his breakfast coffee, a corporal came into the house and put a heavy hand on the deserter.

The bride, left alone, wept and was miserable. Lammert was sentenced. She went to Washington and tried to see President Roosevelt and the secretary of war. Then she wrote to the president. She got polite replies from secretaries, but she kept on writing to the president. Finally the secretary told the president about it, and Mr. Roosevelt read the letters. He forgot the affairs of state, reading the heart story of a pretty baker's daughter.

Then it was that his face softened and he gently smiled. He smiled all the while he dictated the pardon to his secretary. He was smiling when he signed it.

Lammert, the deserter, is free and with his faithful little wife.

SCHWAB HELPS BLIND TOM

Five Dollars Given Newsman Enables Him to Bring Suit.

Thomas Angus, better known as Blind Tom, who has been selling newspapers at the Pennsylvania railroad ferry, Twenty-third street, for the last three years, experienced the happiest moment of his life, says the New York Herald, when in the supreme court, Jersey City, a jury gave him a verdict for $6,208 against the man whom he charges with being responsible for his loss of sight.

For thirteen years Blind Tom waited for this day, and it might never have arrived had not Charles M. Schwab a few months ago given him a five dollar bill for a newspaper, the money being used by Blind Tom to employ a lawyer.

The defendant was William J. Jungling of 41 Orient avenue, Jersey City. On Aug. 7, 1889, Angus, not then blind, was seated on the stoop of his home in Pine street, Jersey City, when Jungling asked him to smell the contents of a bottle. Jungling said the bottle contained perfume, but it was filled with strong spirits of ammonia, and as Angus was about to take a whiff the former threw the liquid into his face. Angus was blinded.

Angus would have sued for damages then, but Jungling had little money. Two years ago, however, Jungling inherited a fortune from a grandparent. The jury was out but ten minutes.

Beef Trust After Leather.

It is rumored in the leather district that on the completion of the beef merger the packing house combination, says a Boston special to the New York Tribune, will set to work acquiring the principal leather companies, including the so called trusts, the American Hide and Leather and the United States Leather company. The leather men know that the beef men have the leather trade practically at their mercy, as the combination will have control of the green hide output of the United States, amounting to between 7,000,000 and 8,000,000 cattle hides annually. This product has an aggregate value of over $75,000,000. The beef men desire control of the big leather trusts in order to secure the full return upon the hides. These interests have at different times been engaged in the leather business, and even now Swift & Co. control the National Leather company, which is extensively engaged in the tanning of leather.

EMBASSADOR PAID BET.

Paucaefote Lost the Champagne to Washington Detective.

The late Lord Paucaefote, who for years served as British minister to the United States, always entertained a very high opinion of the District detective force, says the Washington Post. In fact, he believed it was better even than that of Scotland Yard, and the manner in which he formed this view makes a very interesting story. During the latter part of one spring some four or more years ago his lordship and family decided to leave the city for a summer's sojourn on the seacoast, and the diplomat sent word to Chief of Police Sylvester requesting that he send up one of his best detectives to assist and advise him as to the best plan for making the house secure against burglars.

Pursuant to request, the major sent one of his best men, and when he arrived his lordship took him in to where he had locked the silverware in a very strong, but rather old fashioned, safe, the door of which lacked a combination and was secured by lock and key. Pointing to this safe, Lord Paucaefote explained that he would like to see the thief or burglar who could break into it and steal the plate within. The detective eyed the large iron vault for a few minutes and then said:

"Yes, it is a very strong piece of work, but, nevertheless, I'll bet you a bottle of champagne that I can enter this house without coming through a door or window and open that safe in less than five minutes." The British ambassador took the bet at once, promising more than one bottle of champagne if the detective could make good his boast within the time specified. So, while his lordship held his watch, the detective proceeded to business.

When he first entered the mansion, the detective had noticed that the cellar gratings were unsecured, and, going outside, he opened one of them, dropped down into the basement and, coming up the kitchen stairway, was soon in the room in which the iron vault containing the silver plate was located. This of itself fairly took the breath of the distinguished diplomat, but when the detective took from his pocket a skeleton key and at one turn opened the massive doors of the safe Lord Paucaefote was ready to confess that he was beaten and promptly paid the bet.

SHE STOPPED THE TRAIN.

How Mrs. Chauncey Shattered British Traditions by Pulling Alarm Cord.

It took a pretty American woman to tell the British railway servants, who are notoriously stupid, that it was their business to direct passengers to the right trains when asked, and the course she took to teach the lesson has made railway officials open their eyes, says the London correspondent of the New York Herald.

Mrs. Samuel Chauncey of New York, sister of Lady Newborough, who has made such a brilliant social success in London this year, has lately been at Bervick-on-Tweed. On her way there she had to change at York. She lost her maid and governess altogether, while her mother, Mrs. Carr, and her little daughter also disappeared and did not turn up until the next day.

Mrs. Chauncey found herself put into the wrong train by a guard, so without any hesitation she rang the alarm bell and had the train stopped, much to the amazement of the trainmen, whom she blamed for allowing her to travel by the wrong train. She then calmly alighted and walked back half a mile or so to the next station, where she caught another train.

Society is convulsed with merriment whenever Mrs. Chauncey's story is told. Some people look at her with awe, for it is a British tradition that only cases of life or death can properly excuse pulling the alarm bell.

ALASKA OIL GUSHER.

Said to Have Spouted Two Hundred Feet When Tapped.

A special dispatch from Valdez, says the Tacoma (Wash.) correspondent of the New York Times, announces that an immense oil gusher was struck at Cotella, on the southern Alaska coast, at a depth of 200 feet. An Indiana company has been boring at Cotella for several months, but did not expect to find oil so near the surface.

The gusher took everything away with it, rising nearly 200 feet before it could be capped. The oil is of good quality, being valued at $4 a barrel at the well. It is near to water transportation and will cost $3 a ton to reach Pacific coast ports.

Ten miles of coast lands in the vicinity have been located for oil borings. Cotella is near Kayak, thirty miles south of Copper. A large body of coal was recently discovered near the same place. The syndicate owning the well now flowing has announced its intention of refining the oil on the spot.

The discovery indicates that the oil bearing strata bears upward from California, striking Alaska near the Copper river. An important new industry is thus added to Alaska's resources.

Japanese Fashions For Women.

Probably the most startling prophecy uttered by any of the speakers at the convention of the National Dressmakers' association in Chicago, says a dispatch from that city, was made by the organization's president, Mme. L. L. Rapp, when she declared that wraps and jackets of all kinds during the coming season will be distinctly Japanese in origin. For the first time in the history of modern fashions the well dressed woman of America turns to the far east for inspiration in her choice of modes, shapes and general design— to Tokyo rather than to Paris. With this end in view, sleeves are to be full and free, and the garment itself will fit closely only at the neck.

THE MAN WHO EXPOSED THE ST. LOUIS BOODLERS

[Special Correspondence.]

St. Louis, Sept. 23.—The rounding up of the boodlers of the St. Louis municipal assembly has furnished about the most startling and picturesque chapter in all the history of investigations of municipal crookedness.

It is incredible that the government of this progressive and enterprising city, whose people compare favorably in point of morality and intelligence with those of any other American city, should have been given over to an organized and outboard band of looters who, according to the confessions of some of its members, would not hesitate to commit murder or any other crime on the calendar should occasion require it. But such is the case if the statements made by a number of the boodlers who have been seeking cover by turning state's evidence are to be believed.

The desperation of the boodlers was evinced by the repeated threats against the life of Circuit Attorney Joseph W. Folk, who has been mainly instrumental in bringing to light their criminal acts. For several days immediately following the most damaging revelations it was deemed necessary by the St. Louis police to surround the people's attorney by a strong guard to protect him from assassination.

Attorney Folk has been working for about a year fearlessly and persistently to bring to justice the men whom it was more than suspected were accepting bribes from various corporations and individuals for city franchises and privileges, and he now has the satisfaction of having gathered within his dragnet a score of them, who are now either behind prison bars or under heavy bonds. Attorney Folk, however, does not intend to stop with his assault upon the bribe takers, but before he completes the task to which he has set his hand he proposes to round up the bribe givers, even though it bring into unenviable notoriety and possibly solitary confinement some wealthy and eminently respectable directors of traction, illuminating and other concerns which have been the beneficiaries of purchased privileges.

To one casually meeting him at his office, in his home or on the street Mr. Folk does not appear to be the fearless and unflinching fighter which he has proved himself. He is one of those reserved, gentle natures under whose placid exterior lies a vast reserve of mental energy. He has a handsome face, almost boyish in its open frankness, with few lines indicative of his mental characteristics. It is pre-eminently the face of the student. His mouth is the most prominent feature.

In repose there is just the suggestion of lines to the corners of the mouth indicative of firmness and determination, but which "in action" become so intensified that no student of physiognomy could mistake their significance. He has a clear, steady dark brown eye and a low, pleasant voice. He talks very quietly and evenly. He rarely becomes excited and never loses his temper.

Even when examining a recalcitrant or unruly witness he maintains an exasperatingly calm, untroubled demeanor and rarely raises his voice above the conversational pitch, but there is that in his manner at such times that suggests the sharp claw beneath the velvet sheath of the wary tiger's paw.

As a lawyer Mr. Folk is resourceful and tactful. His forte is not oratory, and he makes no pretensions to eloquence. He is not argumentative. His brain is analytical. He has the faculty of quickly seizing the salient points in a case, subordinating all other considerations to these and crystallizing them in the minds of judge or jury so that they will leave a distinct impression when all others have been effaced by subsequent developments.

Mr. Folk came to this city some years ago from a comparatively obscure town in eastern Tennessee, where his ability as a lawyer had outgrown the modest necessities of the community. Here he discovered a wider and more fertile field for the display of those attainments which he had developed by studious application. His rise to prominence here in his profession has been steady and without any spectacular demonstration. He has won his place in the community by undoubted legal ability, moral courage, determination and aggressive application to duty.

It is this sort of man who is leading the fight against the bribe givers and the bribe takers that have brought a stain upon the name of a city otherwise fair and of good report.

WHAT IS WORN.

Turkish and Bell Sleeves—The Triple Coat Cape.

The bolero made quite short and somewhat loose, but not quite of the sack order, is still worn, and the sleeves at present in vogue are extremely elegant. Some of these of Turkish shape are gathered into a shaped cuff. Others are closely fitted to the elbow and then spread out in bell shape and have a broad upturned cuff of velvet and long light under-sleeves of silk lace or velvet. A bell sleeve with three or four godet ruffles suggests a triple bell shape, and many bishop and Turkish sleeves are trimmed in simulated bell fashion, which permits a good deal of fancy trimming in the way of velvet, braid and stitching.

The triple cape is much used on coats, particularly those of the Monte Carlo variety. These last will be worn all through the winter and will be made of cloth, heavy moire, bengaline silks and velvet.

The illustration shows a smart rain coat. It is made of rainproof cover. The sleeves have wide lower edges trimmed with strappings. The fullness is belted in at the back after the latest fashion.

With this is worn a hat of stitched cloth trimmed with a scarf of dotted panne.

GRAY IS FASHIONABLE.

Tints Ranging From Dark to Light Combined With Bright Colors.

There are two smart grays. One is that steely slate color which, relieved by bright red and ivory lace, makes an ideal hat. The other is a lighter shade and is worn with orange, heliotrope or orchid pink. It tones well with the ecru lace. Small medallions or panels of velvet are mixed with braided motifs and have an uncommon effect on self colored cloth.

The herringbone and stitching which have been so popular this summer are still in favor, but are now placed over narrow velvet or satin ribbon. This is very effective on a cloth gown, using silk thread of the same shade as the cloth, velvet of a contrasting tint and piece velvet of the same color for cuffs and flat collar.

Gray metallic velvet in all the shades from gun metal to pearl will be all the style this winter, and entire gray costumes, even to the furs and gloves, will be worn.

The traveling coat illustrated is from a leading French house. The material is gray cloth relieved with touches of deep crimson velvet. The garment is collarless, but has a stitched cape terminating in front with the two oddly shaped diamond revers illustrated. The full sleeves are gathered into a tightly fitted stitched cuff. The hat which goes with this is of ecru velvet and lined with deep red velvet and trimmed with a white bird of paradise tail.

Harper's Ferry, the Gate to the Shenandoah Valley.—Where the three States of Virginia, West Virginia, and Maryland come together; where the Potomac and Shenandoah Rivers unite; where the towering steeples of the Blue Ridge and abruptly, frowning upon the heights of Maryland and Bolivar Heights in West Virginia, lies the quaint historic town of Harper's Ferry. John Brown baptized it in blood in 1859, when he captured the town and the U. S. Arsenal and made his final and fatal stand in the engine house (known afterwards as John Brown's Fort), alongside the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad. A plain shaft simply inscribed, now marks the location.

Again in 1861, grim visaged war seized the village and held it tight in its grasp for nearly four years. The deeds that were done, and the tales that are told concerning Harper's Ferry fill volumes.

The heights at Harper's Ferry guarded the Shenandoah Valley. It was a most important stronghold to be desired when some great campaign was planned by either army.

TELEPHONE

EXCHANGE IS TO GO ABOVE THE WEIANT BAKERY.

Fine Location Secured for the New System Being Installed by the Home Company.

The Newark Independent Telephone Company which is now rebuilding its entire system at an expense of nearly $50,000, has just secured a long time lease on the second floor of the James E. Thomas building, 38 North Third street and it is here that the new central energy switchboard now being built in La Fayette, Ind., for the Newark company, will be installed.

The new exchange which will be on the first floor above the Weiant bakery will be fitted with every convenience for the operators and patrons of the company. The several cables leading to the new building will be carried underground from Church street.

W. H. Crumb & Co., of Chicago, who are doing the outside construction work for the Newark Telephone Company, announce that the new poles are set and that a part of the cable to be used on the new system is here. Crumb & Co. are hurrying the work with a big force of men. A part of the switchboard apparatus has arrived from Lafayette, Ind., and will soon be put in position as the company gets possession of the new rooms on October 1. It will be December 1 before the new system is entirely completed but the old exchange will be kept in operation up to the time all of the company's subscribers are transferred to the new and up to date system. The exchange will be new throughout.

G. C. WILSON

Former Newark Man Says He Can Not Accept a Renomination at Cincinnati.

Thursday morning's Cincinnati Enquirer says that the greatest surprise which the Hamilton county Democracy has had in some time came yesterday when Gideon C. Wilson, the present County Solicitor, announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election. He drafted and sent to Judge W. H. Jackson, a formal letter asking Judge Jackson, as chairman of the Convention to withdraw his name if it is presented to the convention.

In the letter Mr. Wilson, who is a former Newark man, a brother-in-law of Edward Kibler, says that his professional engagements for the coming year necessitate his absence from Cincinnati during the larger part of the year, and he therefore can not consider a renomination.

There would be no doubt of Mr. Wilson's re-election were he to allow his name to be used as a candidate.

THE COURTS.

MRS. JACOB BOUNDS ASKS FOR A DIVORCE.

While Mrs. Macie Connell Sues for Alimony—Transfers of Property. Court House Notes.

Mary Bounds by her attorneys, Smythe & Smythe, has filed a petition with the clerk of the court asking for a divorce from her husband, Jacob R. Bounds. The parties were married on October 15, 1893, and no children have been born of said marriage. The plaintiff for cause of action, says that the defendant abandoned her on October 13, 1896, and that he left the state never returning so far as she knows, and the last heard of him was four years ago, when it was reported that he was in California. Plaintiff also says that for nine years the defendant has totally neglected and refused to provide her with anything in the way of support. She therefore asks to be divorced from the defendant and restored to her maiden name of Mary Rugg.

Suit for Alimony.

The plaintiff says that she was married to the defendant July 26, 1886, and that there are now living three children aged respectively 8, 6 and 5 years, who were born of said marriage. For cause of action the plaintiff alleges abandonment, extreme cruelty and habitual drunkenness on the part of the defendant.

Common Pleas Court.

The case of the city of Newark vs. Wm. M. Shamp was tried to the court Thursday. Sometime prior to 1885 Thomas Holman erected two buildings in East Newark, on Main street, one of which was sold to the city, in which is located the East Newark Fire Department; the two buildings being divided by a partition wall. The other building was sold under foreclosure proceedings and is now owned by the defendant, Wm. M. Shamp. The city claims to own the partition wall, and Shamp also claims to be the owner of it. Shamp now proposes to move his building and take with it the wall in question, which the city says will entirely destroy its Fire Department building. An injunction was asked, restraining Shamp from interfering with the city's use of the wall; a temporary restraining order was heretofore allowed; and the case was heard Thursday on its merits, an answer having been filed by Mr. Shamp. The court, after hearing the testimony and the arguments of counsel, took the case under advisement. Phil B. Smythe, City Solicitor; Norpell & Norpell and Edward Kibler for Shamp.
